

THE WEEKLY GRAPHIC

KIRKSVILLE, Mo.
T. E. Sublette, Proprietor
FRIDAY FEBRUARY 17.

The papers longest in praise of the President's message are published in London.

Counterfeit silver certificates of the denomination of $5 are in circulation. They are three-sixteenths of an inch shorter than the genuine certificates.

James G. Blaine has written a letter to the chairman of the National Republican committee, in which he positively declines to be a candidate for the presidency.

In Russian official circles it is said that Prince Bismarck's words and policy are irreconcilable. The peace feeling is dying out. The military movement continues.

It is reported that the Kansas Pacific Bondholders will bring criminal action against certain residents of Boston, who were engaged with Gould and Sage in the bond swindle.

The Globe Democrat has found a place for John B. Henderson—if Sheridan is the next President. It is also in order to hunt a place for Geo. William Curtis. Where shall it be?

In this issue will be found something reliable and interesting in regard to canneries. From the figures it would seem that only a very little capital is needed to begin the canning business.

Dr. Hostetter of Pittsburgh, Pa., has gone to California to regain his shattered health. His case is watched by the life insurance companies with great interest, as he carries $800,000 life insurance and his death would be a big financial loss to them.

A favorable report has been agreed upon by the house committee on the Hoar resolution to amend the constitution so as to change the inauguration day of the President from March 4th to April 30th.

The Hill and Cleveland factions of New York are massing their forces for an active fight for their favorite candidates. As men usually get maddest when they have least to quarrel about the Republicans may reasonably expect a wide breach in the democracy of New York.

D. R. Locke (Nasby) proprietor of the Toledo Blade, died at an early hour Wednesday morning. Few newspaper men have acquired either the fame or fortune of "Petroleum V. Nasby." His success dated from his first production for the press. He is said to be worth nearly a million of dollars. His father is well advanced in the nineties, and still lives in Toledo.

Our correspondent, "LaPlata," urges us to hoist the name of Judge C. P. Hess for the Congressional honors of the First district. We unhesitatingly acknowledge the superior ability of Judge Hess, yet our correspondent must remember that we are not naming congressmen. If we were, we would suggest the name of Hon. F. M. Harrington, who has so ably represented our county in the Legislature for several terms.

Thursday evening of last week the Silk Stocking committee of St. Louis met at Turner Hall and invited the Regular (Filley) Committee to unite with them and thus make one Republican city organization. This action is the result of a proposition made by the Regular (Filley) Committee eighteen months ago, and then tabled. The Filley Committee has been recognized; the Burch bolt of '82 is at an end, and with a united party great results may be confidently expected for 1888.

An Exchange says: there are five Democratic candidates in the field for governor, two for lieutenant governor, two for auditor, two for treasurer, five or six for attorney general, five and possibly six for judge of the supreme court, four for secretary of the state, two for register of lands and between six and twenty-five for railroad commissioner, to say nothing of twenty-five or thirty candidates for the St. Louis and Kansas City courts of appeal. People who think the campaign will not be lively are invited to consider the above.

HESS AND THE RAILROAD BONDS

"LaPlata" Comes Again.

ED. GRAPHIC:—I come again and beg the privilege of using a small space in your paper once more. Since your answer to my letter, I have been investigating as best I could and from the best sources of information obtainable, I find you were in the main correct. It seems that the people have been misinformed in regard to the attitude of Judge Hess on the bond question, at least I have been, and I suppose others are in the same condition. Mr. Hess not being an aspirant for any office has never attempted, so far as I can learn, to clear up this misunderstanding, but has gone quietly along attending to his law practice, and your note in the paper which called out my former letter, was the first intimation I ever had that the attitude of Mr. Hess on the bond business was otherwise than as represented. Macon county is not the only county of this congressional district that has suffered in this bond business. Knox, Scotland and I believe Schuyler, have had a somewhat bitter experience. One who had the judgment to see the results that would follow issuing the bonds, and the courage, when voting bonds was popular, to stand up and openly fight the proceeding, is worthy of a substantial recognition at the hands of our people. Mr. Hess is a man of unquestioned ability and as an orator never fails to captivate his hearers. We think no better man can be found to represent the First district in Congress, and as we do not feel that it is in our province to name congressional candidates, we would suggest that the Graphic raise his name to the masthead, and we believe the Republican party will be a unit in support of him.

Respt. LA PLATA.

CANNING ESTABLISHMENT.

Something About the Expense of Establishing the Same.

Prices of Vegetables, Wages of Workmen, Workwomen, etc.

In view of the great interest in canning factories in the West, the following particulars as to the cost of the necessary equipment, as furnished to the Lincoln Virginia by a correspondent from Botetourt county, noted for its many successful canning factories may be of interest:

The capacities of the figures herein described are adapted to a small "cannery." The boiler with one kettle, would prepare enough tomatoes, etc. to fill daily 3,600 cans or three times this number of peaches or apples. Every additional kettle would proportionally increase the capacity.

The cost of a boiler of twelve horse power, is $220; kettle, open, $12 to $25. This will do for tomatoes, peaches and all kinds of berries.

If corn and peas are to be canned a patent process kettle is necessary. This costs $225. With this kettle you have a set of grates.

Leaving this out we have the following additional items: Open kettles and crates, extra cost $6 to $8; exhaust box $17, crane to hoist crate out of kettle $13; air pump, $6; oil tank, $8 to $25; free pots $8 to $10; Debow capping tools, $3 each, two of these will be necessary for each man, but one capper is sufficient in a small cannery.

The price of the cans, if they are bought at the right time, are for two pound cans $1.78 per 100; for three pound cans $2.46 to $3 per 100.

The cases or boxes in which the cans are packed for shipment, and which holds two dozen two pound cans 7 cts each; for cases that hold two dozen three pound cans, nine cents.

The price paid for shelling peas is 5 cents a gallon, for peeling tomatoes, is 1 cent per bucket, that is the common wooden bucket. For peeling and seedling peaches 12 cts per bushel. These are the prices when the hands are boarded at the cannery. If they board themselves fifteen cents a day is allowed.

In the foregoing statement of expenses of starting a cannery nothing is said of a house to cover the machinery and operations. This may be a very plain cheap shed, or a more costly building, or some building may be adapted to the purpose. A house with an area of floor equivalent to 25x40 feet would be sufficient. Leaving out the cost of the house and of the process kettle necessary if corn and peas are to be canned, the sum of $250 will amply inform covered expenses of starting a cannery for tomatoes, peaches, apples and all kinds of berries.

the spotted ones at once rejected) then scalded and piled into buckets to wait the peeling process. The number of those employed in the factory amounts to 150, nearly all of whom are girls. The girls had each a great bucket full of scalded tomatoes before them constantly, and the speed in which the skins were hustled off and the tomatoes were sent to the waiting cans was remarkable.

About 1,5000 cans were filled by them each day until the end of the season. The factory can hardly be said to have been running at full capacity as help has been lacking, but with fifty expected new hands the limit of capacity would have been reached.

The seeds and plants were furnished in the spring by the canning company and the tomatoes were brought to the factory for $6.50 a ton. The two kinds used are Beauty and Perfection. The greatest care, neatness and dispatch is used in canning them, and the result is mountains of shining cans filled with luscious vegetables all contracted awaiting a full in the rush of business to have their labels pasted on and to be shipped.

I do not know of any investment which pays more for your money than a canning factory, said Mr. N. S. Storrs, of Vernon, Mo., a man experienced in the canning business, recently. "Ordinarily they will return 25 to 50 per cent when judiciously managed."

You can dispose of goods just as fast as they are ready for the market, and that feature enables you to transact business with comparative small capital.

As the work is done in summer, a cheap building will answer all requirements, and that together with the machinery for a large business will not cost more than $3,000. The money would provide a factory giving employment to one hundred women and girls, and the disbursements each week for vegetables and labor would run from $800 to $1000. An active woman earns about one dollar a day.

Tomatoes, corn and peas are the staples. One acre of tomatoes will ordinarily produce 400 bushels, which at 25 cts per bushel will yield one hundred dollars. Sweet corn is bought in the husk for $7.50 a ton. Peas are bought at 50 cents a bushel.

In January the company sends a man out among the farmers who contracts for the growth of supplies, thus insuring certainty of production. The company furnishes all the seeds.

A company can make its own cans for less than two cents each, and one bushel of tomatoes will make twenty 3 pound cans. The cost of labor, labeling and boxing is very small on one can, and tomatoes are wholesaling at 1.20 per dozen a price unusually high on account of the scarcity of last year's crop. But at 1.00 per dozen there is a large profit in the business. There is even larger in corn than in tomatoes.

Col. Andrews' Generous Tribute to a Woman's Heroism.

OMAHA, January 28.

Colonel A. Andrews, the well-known jeweler of San Francisco, has sent through ex-Mayor James E. Boyd, of this city, a tribute to the courage and heroism of Miss Minnie Freeman, a school teacher in Valley county, Neb., who saved her scholars from death during the fearful storm of January 12th, 1888, by tying them together and leading them to a place of safety. The gift is a beautiful gold watch, the case encrusted with a diamond star, a finely wrought gold chain, and a neat charm with monogram. On the inside of the case is inscribed:

A. Andrews, of San Francisco, to Miss Minnie Freeman, of Myra valley district, for her heroism in saving the lives of thirteen children in the great storm of Jan. 12, 1888.

Accompanying the gift was the following letter:

San Francisco, Jan. 21st—Miss Minnie Freeman, Myra Valley, Neb. I hand you this watch and chain as a token of my appreciation of your courage and presence of mind, your unselfishness and readiness to risk yourself for others, as shown in saving the lives of your pupils in the recent great storm.

I have received only the telegraphic account of this good deed, by which I learn that you secured them by a rope and led them to safety against the embattled elements. The world should never cease to reward and applaud those characteristics which have made you the savior of others. For a "rescue of others" and to complement you as well as to encourage others in the exercise of the qualities you have so usefully exhibited.

The chain is wrought in the semblance of a rope, to always remind your friends of the means by which you led precious lives from peril to safety. Upon the case are stars, as shown in saving the lives of your pupils in the recent great storm.

"Lives of great men always remind us that we are all subject to die," says an exchange, but never enough your yourself away as long as you can raise twenty-five cents for a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Walnut Items.

ED. GRAPHIC: We are having honest winter weather.

Health in Walnut is generally good.

We are having a boom in the way of saw mills, there being two new ones on Musclee creek.

Charles Minear is getting logs to the mill preparatory to building a large barn and house on Judge Elison's garden spot in this township.

Corn is selling in this neighborhood at 30 cts. per bushel, oats 25, prairie hay $2.50 per ton, timotay $4.

Mr. Editor, it is not very encouraging to the sheep and wool growers, since the President and the dogs have turned loose on the flocks. I think we had better retire the President this coming fall and petition our legislature to give us back the law taxing dogs. I believe there is a grand majority in Missouri to-day favoring the dog tax even if they are not in favor of retiring the President.

But there is one thing sure we cannot expect to prosper in sheep husbandry till we get rid of the present administration and the dogs.
